

STATISTICAL DATA DISSEMINATION POLICY AND ITS MAIN PRINCIPLE

One. General provision

1. Basing on related definition and provisions of law on statistics and being guided by principles of statistical operations reflected in provision No. 4 of the law, the present regulation is developed implementing a clause of "Statistical information is adequate for the public and open and clear in the range permitted by the law".
2. The main purpose of statistical data dissemination policy is to provide anyone with official statistical information of Mongolian economy, society and population whenever and wherever within the framework permitted by law, other authorities and regulating official documents equally and adequately.
3. Not to disseminate to the public secret facts and figures, extensive information and research materials, files, data's on development stage or extensive statistics materials for specific permitted users.
4. The statistical organization maintains a policy of spending budget economically and efficiently and earning some amount of money from charged service for clients. However it shall not serve only for profit and shall work sensing needs and demands of clients, expanding service and consumers' range and maintaining flexible price policy.

Two. Main principle of operation to implement a statistical data dissemination policy

1. To provide all users with statistical information open, equally and without discrimination.
2. To disseminate statistical information in way suitable for users' needs and demands.
3. To have material base, cadre and sophisticated database on user's usage and technical level.
4. To have time, indicators standard and design reflecting home country specification and meets international data dissemination methodology.
5. The statistical database shall be updated, enriched and expanded time to time.

Three. Statistical information user

The statistical information is distributed with charge and free of charge and users are divided as free and charged users.

Free user - include the President of Mongolia, its Secretariat, State Great Khural, its Secretariat, members, the Government members, its organizations, statistical organizations of countries in cooperation of information exchange, international financing organizations.

Charged user - include all foreign and domestic organizations, enterprises and citizens.

Four. Methods and ways of disseminating statistical information

Statistical information shall be disseminated in following ways. Hereinafter:

- Through public media's
- In published forms
- By electronic data carrier and saving tools
- By internet
- By professional intermediary organizations
- By ordered services

Above mentioned methods of statistical information is used combining in accordance with users' interest, needs and demands and electronic data dissemination method shall be developed in the further as main method.

Following main methods are used for spreading statistical information

Hereinafter:

1. Published information:
 - Statistical Yearbook, Bulletin, review, book, brochure, pamphlet.
 - Catalogues
 - Product price lists
 - Advertisement materials
 - Posters, graphs and diagrams
2. Electronic data and service
 - Service of distributing information by E-mail
 - CD ROM
 - Floppy disc
 - Online network /Internet/
3. Ordered and guide service
 - Give advice and answer about product to users by telephone and fax.
 - Service of giving answer by E-mail
 - Service of compiling, copying and publishing information by order.
 - Organizing seminar, training, lecture, interview and presentation for users.
 - Library service
4. Disseminating public information by public media
 - Organizing press conference to give information every quarter.
 - Giving interview at radio and television, prepare material and broadcast it.
 - Publicize official information at newspaper and magazines.

Five. Main orientation of data dissemination operation

1. Updating and enriching statistical database
 - To update database with on time official statistical information constantly.
 - Information time be continuous and never ending
 - To be easy to use
 - To provide information privacy, confidence and protection and to refine
 - To form archive of database.
2. Developing statistical information marketing
 - To increase and refine data dissemination channels, methods and ways
 - To study and refine information sorts, needs and demands
 - To study needs and demands of users and form a possibility for anyone to get wanted information adequately and equally.
 - To publicize statistical information
 - To develop foreign relation and information exchange
3. Forming material base and cadres that meet usage and technical standard of users
 - To reform data dissemination methodology and material base on international standard
 - To involve database and data dissemination employees in constant training and provide conditions to work constantly.
 - To transfer slowly data dissemination unit to principle of working in enterprise calculation, make calculation and maintains orientation of building independent unit when there's provided related conditions.

Six. Implementing data dissemination policy

1. The entity which implements this policy and line shall be National Statistical Office and its data dissemination unit.
2. The present policy and main line is the main document for statistical organization to maintain for disseminating for information in the short and long term development.

oOo